ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

The Web is rich with information, gathering and making sense of this data is difficult because the documents of the Web is largely unorganized. The biggest challenge in the next several decades is how to effectively and efficiently make a machine-understandable called Semantic web. The scope of the seminar is to know about the computational aspects of Information Extraction (IE) and Integration from unstructured and semi-structured sources. The enabling tools, techniques and languages for semantic Web mining makes the scholars to utilize the need of the semantics. Text classification techniques using statistical (Naive Bayes) and knowledge based techniques, mining ontologies from the Web and to build Focused Web Crawlers plays a major usage among the candidates. Finally the seminar also gives an idea for doing research in Data Mining and Semantic Web Mining
